A: You will have to uninstall the main application before you can remove any of the pre-requisites. Make sure that you can do this before you start looking for the uninstaller. Or uninstall the pre-requisites from there and hope that the uninstaller will remove the main application. A: I'd like to put in a bit of a hat tip to the guys in this thread, but if you have a rooted phone, you can use a tool such as DDMS, see: Not a simple process, but necessary in some cases, such as if there are also applications that are installed "system" apps. If you don't have a rooted phone, or if you have a system app installed such as Flashlight, Phone, etc., I'm afraid it's a bit of a Hail Mary and I'm not real confident it will work. If you do get into and through the process, do take a backup first, as you never know how a rooted process may attempt to fix itself the next time. Q: What can be thought to be a "simple" example of a "simple" cohomology? Having read Griffiths, I noticed that a "simple" cohomology is understood in there is no non-trivial H^2 Is the following example giving a simple cohomology? Here is the part of the exercise that is confusing me. Why does allow us to immediately conclude that there exists (in my example) a H^2 that is non-trivial? A: The third term $H^1(S, \mathscr{O}_S)$ is trivial in this case, so we are actually calculating $H^1(S, \mathscr{O}_S^{\wedge 2})$, the group of units of \mathscr{O}_S . The map is induced by the composition $\mathscr{O}_S \rightarrow \mathscr{O}_S^{\wedge 2} \rightarrow \mathbb{G}_m \rightarrow 1$ where the first map is the identity map (so the map from \mathscr{O}_S to itself is the identity), the second map is the canonical projection, and the third is the group homomorphism $\mathbb{G}_m \rightarrow \mathbb{G}_m$
